RESHAPING MALL CULTURE IN THE NCR

The recent approval of FDI in multi-brand retail has pushed developers and promoters to reshape mall culture in the Delhi NCR realty market. PUNJIA writes

With an estimated current urban population of over 27 million people (as per the Census 2011 provisional data) and based on an ideal mall space ratio of 1.2 sq ft per capita, the Delhi NCR can currently absorb total mall space of 32,460 million sq ft in GLA (gross lettable area).

Another reason for the rising popularity of malls is that they have been designed as modernistic shopping complexes offering best-in-class retail environment avenues to suit diverse customer profiles. A report estimates that the ideal per capita mall space in India's Top 30 urban centres is about 1.2 sq ft per person, but this can fluctuate from 1.0 sq ft and 1.4 sq ft in different metro markets based on the per capita income of that particular metro market.

The demand and supply scenarios, both current as well as projected till 2015, for mall space in Delhi and the NCR areas like Gurgaon, Faridabad, Ghaziabad, Noida and Greater Noida, will see significant growth. Average size of shopping malls in India has already begun to increase as developers focus on larger spaces. The success of a mall does depend on its size as no superior grade malls are nearly double the size of average grade malls.

It is estimated that the average size of a superior grade mall is 4,00,000 sq ft. The larger mall allows for a complete tenant mix in various formats and categories, and can adopt modern mall management practices easily. With the introduction of FDI in multi-brand retail, the average size of a mall is likely to increase as foreign retailers tend to occupy large space. As a result, the total mall supply and size are expected to increase over the medium to long term.
