

Just as people living in south Delhi moved into Gurgaon, and those living in east Delhi moved to Noida and Greater Noida, those living in north and west Delhi are moving into Kundli-Sonepat. This will further boost the area like generation of more employment opportunities and economic activity. The rise in such activity will then give rise to an increase in demand for residential, commercial and retail, thus fuelling a growth that will make Kundli truly the next NCR destination.

The site is a 15-minute drive from Rohini and Pitampura through the signal-free Mukarba Chowk. Soon Rapid Rail Transport System will connect Delhi and Kundli in just 20 minutes. It is also to be connected by Metro line and a 100 metre-wide road from IGI airport to Narela and is adjacent to KGP and KMP expressways.

Haryana Government is taking new initiatives such as developing projects worth over ₹ 450 crore, laying foundation stones of projects worth ₹ 150 crore, setting up National Institute of Food Technology, Entrepreneurship and Management, construction of ₹ 130 crore by-pass and two railway over-bridges and widening of roads.

About 250 families are already residing in Kingsbury Apartments of TDI City, Kundli. Another 250 is expected to move by March 31, 2012. By the end of 2012 about 3000 families are expected to move in.
